Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-20 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

While Dawson (U.S. Patent No. 6,389,543) discloses system and method for command routing in a multi-node processing system. The system includes an administrator node that transmits input to one of the application nodes (entry nodes), whereas, the input contains command and routing information specifying a list of desired application nodes (destination nodes) to execute the command. A locally stored security information determines whether allowing the entry node to log in, whether the initiating administrator node has authority to execute the requested command and sending response of the outcome of the command execution. Dawson does not teach a packet having a pre-determine itinerary in the packet; predicting at least part of the pre-determined itinerary; and other limitations related to these features in combination with the remaining elements and features of the claimed invention.

And Reiter ("Resilient Authentication Using Path Independence", December 1998, IEEE Transactions on Computers, VOL. 47 NO. 12, PP 1351-1362) discloses authentication using a path of trusted intermediaries by exploring what it means for multiple length-bounded paths to be independent. The paper focus on two related notions of independence, bounded disjoint paths and bounded k-connective paths, that seem to increase assurance in the authentication. Reiter does not disclose a packet having a pre-determine itinerary in the packet; predicting at least part of the pre-determined itinerary; and other limitations related to these features in combination with the remaining elements and features of the claimed invention.

The prior art of record fails to teach or fairly suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention, in conjunction with all the other claimed limitations, an authentication object for use in a transaction having all the claimed features of applicant's instant invention, specifically including: a data packet having an itinerary in an authentication network, the itinerary being pre-determined in the data packet, predicting at least part of the pre-determined itinerary, etc., as set forth in the claims.

Also, there is no motivation to combine the Dawson reference with the Reiter reference to meet these limitations. It is for these reasons that applicant's invention defines over the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
